Process

Key questions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• What relevance do classical authors have?</li><li>• Are the classical authors attractive to you?</li><li>• How can we learn and communicate their strong points?</li><li>• How can we update and reframe the thoughts of the classical authors?</li></ul>
Development	SESSION 1 The teacher divides the students into 4 groups. Each group chooses a classical author (Plato, Socrates, etc.) and designs a fan page using Facebook, Tumblr, Wix, Wordpress, or any other web application. This page will contain the biography of the author, the main works, but also narrations or episodes about their life, games, songs, quiz and so on. The page is moderated by one or more students. The group also designs a marketing strategy to promote the page. (60') SESSION 2 Every group presents their fan page to the whole class and then promotes the page for 1 month, encouraging their peers to visit and comment on it (30'). SESSION 3 (after one month): The class reflects on the fan pages, talking about the level of participation from their peers. (30').
Evaluation	The teacher can evaluate the activity through brainstorming or a focus group to explore changes in the level of interest towards the subjects involved in the activity.
